Life Ming Gong

An open, smooth brow-center — a broad mind that doesn't dwell on small things. Keep it relaxed and your best feature stays.

Career Guan Lu

A full, wide forehead — good career structure and early mentor luck. Suited to work that uses the mind and connects people.

Wealth Cai Bo

A rounded nose tip with contained wings — wealth gathers and holds. Mid-life is your strongest earning phase; steadiness builds it.

Marriage Fu Qi

Smooth outer eye corners — loyal and sincere in love, giving much. Remember to keep some energy for yourself.

Property Tian Zhai

Thin upper lids — home and property built by your own effort, settling in from mid-life. Sentimental, prefers a calm home.

Children Nan Nu

Soft under-eye area — a warm, caring bond with children. Slight puffiness is fatigue, not fate — it recovers with rest.

Siblings Xiong Di

Natural, even brows — good friendships and warmth. Slightly frayed tails: choose a few close friends over many loose ones.

Support Nu Pu

Full lower cheeks — support from juniors and team in later years; a natural people-gatherer, good at leading.

Health Ji E

A straight nose bridge — a solid constitution. Some tiredness around the eyes: earlier nights and eye rest help (wellness, not diagnosis).

Travel Qian Yi

Open brow-temple area — travel and relocation favor you. Going out beats staying put; opportunities abroad.

Fortune Fu De

Full temples — deep blessings, earned by your own kindness. Contentment and peace of mind in later years.

Parents Fu Mu

Full upper-forehead corners — a strong bond with elders and lifelong mentor luck. Respect and remembrance keep it with you.

A Note from the Reader

A face changes with the heart — nothing here is fixed fate. Yours is an open, generous, steadily-rising structure; what matters most is keeping that ease and openness. Do good, be kind to yourself, and a good face only grows brighter.
